Shirin,

Thanks so much for the extension, and that time on Monday works for me - I'll call you then.

Have a good weekend,

Aselda

Hello Aselda,

I spoke to the compliance group and they agreed to a 30 day extension to the information request deadline for the Puget Sound Refinery. The new deadline is, therefore, February 5, 2016.

I'd be happy to speak with you next Monday. I'll give you a call at 10:30 Pacific time. Let me know if that doesn't work for you after all.

Thanks,
Shirin

Thanks for the email Shirin, and I agree – we may never actually speak if we keep trying randomly. My most immediate question relates to timing and whether, given the holidays, Shell may have an extension of time to respond beyond the current January 6th deadline. An additional thirty days (until February 5th) would allow time for the folks at the refinery to gather and prepare a response but still take their planned holiday time off.

I would also still like to have a brief call when it is convenient for you – perhaps next week would work best as I'll be out of the office tomorrow. I'm generally available Monday late morning/afternoon PT if that might work? If not, Tuesday late morning/early afternoon PT would also work. I'm traveling on Wednesday and Thursday, and general open again on Friday.

Many thanks,

Aselda

Subject: your questions

Hello Aselda,

Since we seem to be playing an extended game of phone tag, I wondered if it might be better to correspond via email? Alternatively, please suggest a time when you'd like to touch base on the phone and I can call you then. My calendar is very open on Friday except from 3-4 Pacific.

Thanks,
Shirin
